12 Year Old Girl Rescued from Murder Scene

Crime scene located within the woods behind the girl's grandmother's house

On March 6th at 11:38 a.m., police responded to a noise complaint located at 1901 Smoketree Lane. Upon arriving, officers found the dead body of Wolf Robertson (32) who appeared to have died due to trauma in the abdominal area.

At the scene, there was a 12 year old girl found covered in blood. Police have not yet discovered where the blood originated from; however, they believe it came from Mr. Robertson..

After searching the scene for upwards of 3 hours, police were able to locate what they believe to be the murder weapon, a trench knife engraved with "To my #1 Huntsman".

"We were able to collect a DNA sample from the murder weapon," stated William Belevue, police chief. "We should be able to locate the suspect soon."

In the mean time, police suggest that town residents proceed with extra caution since the suspect is still at large.

"It's important to stay on high alert. If you have any tips that may lead to the arrest of the suspect, please forward those tips to the police department," stated Belevue.

Entire Town Gathers for Marriage of their Prince and His New Wife: The Prince Reminisces of How their Marriage Came to Be

The Prince and Beauty's first portrait taken together before she agreed to marry him.

Wedding Bells sounded early Saturday afternoon as the marriage of Beauty (21) and The Prince of Dreaminsburg (38) brought light to the town.

We caught up with the Prince after the wedding ceremony to hear about the wonderful story.

"Marrying Beauty was definitely one of the best moments of my entire life," said the Prince. "I can't wait to see where the rest of our lives will take us. It's definitely been a ride so far."

Years ago, the Prince was cursed by a wicked fairy to be turned into a beast. She told him the only way to return to his true form was until a girl with wonderous looks would agree to marriage.

"It was definitely terrifying not knowing whether a girl could fall in love with you or not," said the Prince. "I'm just glad she saw passed my looks and liked me for me. I tried so hard to make her understand that I was being genuine and that I wasn't holding her prisoner or anything."

According to the Prince, when the curse was broken, Beauty was a bit confused.

"She asked me where Beast went, and I had to explain the whole situation to her; however, she was very understanding about it and the wedding was set immediately," said the Prince.

The happy couple will continue to reign in Dreaminsburg until they have a so who is old enough to take over the throne.

They hope to live a long life, and begin trying for a child soon to continue their family line.

Man Under Investigation after New Wife Discovers the Missing Bodies of 7 Different Women that Disappeared Within the Last 25 Years

The scene of the investigation, showing the bodies recovered by the police.

Only a month following their marriage, one young lady would be receiving an unfortunate surprise when she decided to take a look around her house.

Ana (20) had just married her husband before she found out his literal “skeletons in the closet.”

“He told me that he would be going on a 6 week business trip,” said Ana. “He then gave me a set of keys, each one for opening certain rooms around the house; however, he was very specific about this one key. He told me that it was for a small room, but I wasn’t allowed to go in it.”

Ana discussed how she was so intrigued by the fact that she was forbidden to go into the room that she of course went to see what was behind the door.

“When I opened the door, I was completely horrified. The scene was really frightening and the fact that he kept the bodies in the house this whole time had me feeling unsettled,” said Ana. I alerted the police immediately and while they did take a while to arrive, I’m just glad that justice will be served a I just want to extend my sincere condolences to the families of the women found.

Her husband, a man with a blue beard was taken into custody by two officers and the trial is pending since the investigation is still ongoing.

While searching the house, police also found what they believe to be an array of different narcotics and have taken them back to the lab to figure out what they are.

More info will release later.

Young boy survives fall off 20th floor of building due to hallucinations

Jack when he first woke up from his medically induced coma.

Yesterday morning, a young boy was brought into the hospital after allegedly surviving a fall from the 20th story of a building downtown.

The boy was completely unharmed according to first responders. He had a few scratches and bruises, but nothing major which is a miracle.

When asked about what happened, the boy, Jack (11), told them that he had just stolen some gold coins from the giants at the top of the beanstalk and he was trying to bring them back to his mother.

Jack's mother has not been able to be reached as of this time and social services have been contacted.

Teenage Girl Rescued From Woods After Being Sent by Caretaker

Rapunzel and her rescuer on his horse where she was found.

After being in an abusive household for all her life, Rapunzel (19) has finally been completely set free.

The teenager was locked away and a young prince found her and visited consistently.

"I eventually accidentally ratted us out and Mother Gothel was so mad at me that she cut off my hair and left me in the woods," said Rapunzel.

Mother Gothel positioned the hair out the window when the prince returned for his daily visit and was met with her instead of his beloved Rapunzel. He then jumped from the tower and lost sight in his eyes, but after wandering, he heard Rapunzel singing and he was able to rescue her.

The two now live happily ever after and plan to get married in the near future. For now, they will continue to rule in the Prince's kingdom.
