Dear Mr. Whitus:

Your reputation as a dedicated councilman precedes you, and it is very apparent that you are well-respected among the citizens of Farmville. I have heard that you take input from your constituents very seriously and appreciate being written to and that is why I am reaching out to you.

For four months now, there has been a pothole on my street that has damaged many cars, including my own, and seems to keep growing in size. I, along with other members of my neighborhood, have submitted multiple requests to the town, attempting to get this pothole repaired. With each request, we have been met with weeks of silence that has only resulted in empty promises.

We understand that there are many things that factor into fixing road issues such as time, resources, and money. However, the residents of Valley View Neighborhood feel as if we have waited patiently and have allowed the town more than enough time to address and repair this issue. With a high number of residents, including some of the town council members, I am very surprised that an issue affecting so many townspeople has not been taken more seriously.

After patiently awaiting action for months, I thought it necessary to go above the council members that my neighbors have previously been in contact with and voice my concerns to you, President of the Farmville Town Council. I trust that you will initiate the action necessary in order to repair this problem and restore confidence in residents that are currently under the impression that the town council is not truly concerned with issues of the town.

Sincerely,
Payten Bovat, a concerned citizen
