Communication

In every professional or academic workplace, I have communicated clearly with every person I come across. I am able to calmly discuss potential problems as well as verbally acknowledge strengths in everyone around me. In times of conflict, I can be a great mediator and strong supporter for the morally right cause.

Leadership and Collaboration

I am seen by my professors and fellow students as a leader who knows how to confront conflict in order to find the perfect solution. I am kind, supportive, and a logical thinker; all of these qualities and more make me a great leader or a team player.
