To Whom it May Concern:

In the job posting, it states that you are looking for someone who can balance analytical thinking with empathy and a love for children. As a freshly graduated social work student with a great work ethic and a passion for helping children, I know that I can meet this expectation and would like to apply for the position of forensic interviewer.

During my time at Longwood University as a social work student, I was afforded the opportunity to work in two different positions as a social work intern. The first internship that I completed was at United Methodist Family Services, where I worked in treatment foster care. My second and final internship is at ChildSafe Child Advocacy Center in Winchester. Through this internship, I was able to gain a great deal of experience in the field of child advocacy.

Additionally, through my internship at ChildSafe, I was able to complete the ChildFirst Virginia Forensic Interview Training. The training enhanced my knowledge about the forensic interviewing process and strengthened my skills as a social worker and as a forensic interviewer. I would greatly appreciate a chance to speak with you more in person about why I am qualified for this position.

Sincerely,

McKenna Clotzman
